Multimedia

Augmented reality	A technology that superimposes a computer-generated image on a user's view of the real world, thus providing a composite view.
Annotation software	Software which allows the user to write and label over the top of images and video.
Screen shot	An image of the display on a computer screen or tablet.
Teleprompter	Software which projects an enlarged image of a script on to a screen in front of a person speaking on television or in public, enabling the speaker to read their speech while appearing to be looking at the viewers or audience.
